

A photograph of a modern Japanese house with a grey tiled roof and a stone wall in the foreground. The house has a white exterior and a dark wooden frame. A stone wall with a mix of grey and brown stones runs across the middle ground. To the left of the wall is a wooden fence with vertical slats. To the right is a modern grey metal structure with a curved top. The foreground shows a paved area with some green plants and a road with a white line. The background shows other houses and a clear blue sky.
